mous Open Hearth of Hartford, an institution that has extended a helping hand to many an unfortunate and down-and-out, is to try the scheme.

The farm was recently purchased by two Hartford people who have given the Open Hearts possession of it and will present it to the organization if the farm proves a success.

It is situated on a bit of rising ground on Birch Mountain in South Manchester. The house, a large colonial structure presents a pleasing view to the eya. It stands overlooking a large pond on a 175-acre tract of land, a great deal of which is cultivated. The house contains eleven large, alry rooms that will be changed according to the fact that perhaps the house will not be large enough to accommodate all applicants, Superintendent Jackson said it was the intention to build a dermitory after things were started.

The farm will be ready in about a month to receive the intemperate man trying to regain lost health and self-control; the man run down physically and mentally needing pleasant out. Tobacco Crop Losses by Hall. The crop losses in Connecticut caused by hall storms mount into impressive figures when given by the insurance companies, and of course insurance companies, and of course the statistics they present are only partial as a great many farmers and tobacco growers do not carry hall insurance. The total of losses by the different companies for 1915 is given as $5,214,107, which they claim is about a million more than the premiums. The Hartford companies suffered severely and some of them are considering the matter of retiring from the field. The year 1915 was peculiar in this line because of the hall over such a wide area. The companies take the risk on assumption door work: the discouraged man seeking temporary shelter; and the man that has lost his way and wants to get back to the right path. COLCHESTER PEOPLE

Harry Levine of Buffalo, N. Y. has entered a civil action against Joseph Cooper and Bessie H. Solway of Coichester and the Jewish Agricultural Industrial and Aid Society of New York city. The complaint states that en January 28th, 1915, the defendant owed the plaintiff $1275 as evidenced by his note of January 28th for $1.375. by his note of January 20th, for $1,275. The defendant, to secure the note, mortgaged a lot of land in Colchester. The Jewish Agricultural Industrial and Aid Society of New York claims to have a mortgage of $200 on the land. In January, 1916, the defendant deed-ed the farm to Bessie Soloway of Colthester. The note is still owned by the plaintiff and is due and wholly un-paid. The plaintiff claims forepaid. osure of the mortgage.
